Renew Pillow Slips
Pillow slips made from tubing may be given a longer lease of life by reversing the end seam. Rip the seam and turn half way around from the way it was at first, so that the former side folds are now in the center, then stitch up again. This gives a new surface for the heavier wear and doubles the service of the pillow slips.

Every soldier in the American Expeditionary Force, says the Stars and Stripes in its latest edition, "will receive a half pound of candy every ten days as a part of his ration."

"The ration will include chocolates and hard candies of pure sugar, and is now being made in factories operated in France."

This is only one of the many evidences that Uncle Sam is endeavoring to do everything possible for the welfare of the American soldiers.

It is hoped that Mr. Jackson will find his new venture a paying investment that will eventually reap big dividends. Just what use will be made of the little tract is not known, but there is no doubt that it was a much needed little corner for his magnificent country estate. The rich editor of the Portland Journal evidently wanted it, the owner was hunted up and the deal was made.

JACKSON, FRIEND (?) OF DOWNTRODDEN

But is There Strong When it Comes to Spending Money on Self

Twenty-five hundred dollars for little over half an acre of uncultivated Clackamas county land. This is the price paid by Sam Jackson, editor of the Portland Journal last week for 66-100 of an acre known as the old hatchery site.

The wealthy editor of the Portland Journal needed this little tract as an addition to his beautiful summer home at Clear Creek where he and his coterie of wealthy Portlanders while away their week-ends—far from the busy whirl of city life.

The purchase was nobody's business except Mr. Jackson's, of course, and yet the transaction calls for some casual observations which may or may not be pertinent.

Mr. Jackson is the self-proclaimed guardian of the interests of the struggling farmer, and the downtrodden laboring man, if his editorial page in the Journal is to be seriously considered. He is the arch enemy of the land grabber, the real estate speculator and the owner of idle lands. It's a fight to a finish, with the Portland Journal sounding the bugle, and carrying the banner at the head of the parade. So reads the Journal editorial page.

Now for the moment Editor Jackson steps down and out of his editorial page and takes part in a little real estate deal which has proven to be a rather astounding transaction when land values in the Clear Creek country are considered. Editor Jackson's magnificent country villa is located about six miles east of Oregon City in what is known as the Baker's Bridge country. There are some good farms in the community, there are some good lands, and some mighty good people, but the combination does not warrant the establishment of a precedent of fixing land values at $3500 an acre.

No one but Mr. Jackson would have paid the price, it is true, and it is also true that had anyone but Mr. Jackson gone into such a speculation nothing would have been thought about the matter. Real homeseekers—men of the soil—who want to purchase farms for agricultural purposes and who have been finding solace in the Journal's campaign against the land speculators in the vain hope that farm land prices would be brought within reach of the man of limited capital, are now watching the effect of Mr. Jackson's action. A deal of this kind does not bring new opportunities to the man of limited means. The effect is indirect, but nevertheless, far reaching.

Clackamas lands are rich, they are worth money, and the man who sells is entitled to and should receive a good price—a fair price. But $2500 for 66-100 of an acre of uncultivated farm land is too much money altogether, in Clackamas or any other county.

It is hoped that Mr. Jackson will find his new venture a paying investment that will eventually reap big dividends. Just what use will be made of the little tract is not known, but there is no doubt that it was a much needed little corner for his magnificent country estate. The rich editor of the Portland Journal evidently wanted it, the owner was hunted up and the deal was made.

HELP SHOULD BE PROTECTED FROM DRAFT

Farmers Advised to Apply for Deferred Classification for Needed Laborers

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis—It is the duty of the farmer in Oregon to apply to the draft board for deferred classification for all farm help needed, says the farm help specialist, J. W. Brewer. This is recommended by the war and the agricultural department.

"Through lack of knowledge of the questionnaire or from mistaken chivalry," he says, "men who are more valuable on the farm than in the trenches will not ask for deferred classification for themselves."

"There is a prospect of serious shortage in every county of the state if the present supply is depleted any further. Daily calls come to this office for farm help, but with the heavy competition of shipyards and industries only a small part of the demands can be met."

Local and district draft boards are now passing on the questionnaires and classifying men for service. This classification will determine the status of every man.

Agricultural advisors have been appointed for each of the three Oregon districts. Information placed in their hands will be brought to the attention of the boards. Farmers in the Portland district should send their data to Wm. Schulmerich, Hillsboro, those of the Eugene district to Richard Scott, Corvallis and those of the LaGrande district to Jay H. Dobbins, Enterprise.

The Kaiser Looks Grave

"The Kaiser looked grave and his hair has become very gray," says an Essen dispatch to the Lokai Anzeiger of Berlin, describing the appearance of Emperor William on the occasion of his speech at the Krupp munition works. "But in his eyes shone the defiant gleam of a Prussian king. With elastic tread he passed through the hall of the Friedrichshalle, where he was welcomed with a short speech by Krupp von Bohlen."

Woman's Statement Will Help St. Helens

"I hated cooking because whatever I ate gave me sour stomach and a bloated feeling. I drank hot water and olive oil by the gallon. Nothing helped me until I tried simple, buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika." Because it flushes the ENTIRE bowel tract completely Adler-ika relieves ANY CASE sour stomach, gas or constipation and prevents appendicitis. The INSTANT action is surprising. A. J. Deming, Druggist.

TODAY'S CALL ON THE BOY AND GIRL

Every boy or girl who is able to continue at studies, but who leaves them for the lure of big war wages, is endangering his or her future position for the sake of a little present prosperity. So far as this city goes the attendance records fail to show any particular falling off. We have at least as many children as we can house and teach. But to every family into which enters this temptation to exploit the earning power of children, the doctrine of preparation for the future should be preached by whoever may have the opportunity, whether teacher or pastor or neighbor. Life after the war will be a crowded road and no one can be too well equipped to make progress along it.—Brooklyn Eagle.
